Bryarly survey less 2 acres set aside for cemetery from Alonzo Smith et ux to Willie Melvin Smith, Sr. This cemetery is old and has been in use for many years, the problem is that no permanent markers were erected. From the size, about three acres of land being mowed, and from the number of grave depressions in the area, I would put a conservative guess of from 200 to 300 burials for which there are no records. It was started in the 1860's by John Ayers Chambers and the first grave was that of Dick Mosley, who was overseer for John Ayers Chambers. Mosley came to Texas in 1858 and settled on the edge of Guests' Prairie. The black cemetery is to the south and contains some graves of slaves and ex-slaves. No markers remain there in 1999. During an hour long visit, we were able to locate 5 markers, either with all the information or at least part of it. The oldest marked burial we found was that of Susan Randles who died on 21 Dec 1894. This visit plus a reconstruction from county death records recreates it in part.

These readings are taken from older records dating back to the 1930's and this is the only record of these burials as the cemeteries no longer exist. Mannus Cemetery is located in a private pasture southeast of the Manchester community and was recorded in the mid to late 1940's. It was unfenced at this time and open to cattle. As with all the old cemeteries, there were several wooden posts noting burials. UPDATE: On 19 Apr 2000 Lawrence & Sue Dale were taken to the site of this old cemetery by Russell Robinett. He has lived within 3/10 of a mile of this old burying ground since the early 1940's. All that is now left of this site is a few pieces of rotted barbed wire where it was once fenced. All the old markers are gone including the four listed here from the Newhouse book.

The bad guys might have been from the Clarksville area or maybe they just robbed a bank in Clarksville. In any event, after the robbery the crooks fled across the Red River to Oklahoma. 'There was a marshal or deputy marshal there saw them riding along the trail in Oklahoma,' Lee Somerville said. 'He knew who they were, so he got behind a tree.' Somerville is a writer of Western and mystery stories and novels. The lawman, Somerville said, had a good rifle and was a good shot. 'He dropped the three of them, right there.' _____ 'The three men were buried in unmarked graves outside the old Catholic Cemetery,' Somerville said. 'Now, good men are always buried facing east, so on the day of judgement, they'll rise up facing the sun. However, the bank robbers were buried facing west, so that on Judgement Day they could get a running start.' County Clerk and historian Mary Hausler agreed that there were three bank robbers and their bodies were returned to Clarksville for burial. 'I always heard they were buried in old Mount Zion Cemetery,' she said. That cemetery is not too far south of St. Joseph's Catholic Cemetery. 'The graves were not marked.' Possibly, these were the last burials in old Mount Zion Cemetery and they occurred on July 13, 1894. Mrs. Hausler said she understood the robbers were buried face down and with their heads to the west. This cemetery is at present badly overgrown and contains no markers. There have been some of the old graves that have washed into the creek. Excerpted from CLARKSVILLE TIMES, 7 July 1961: In 1941, at the edge of the cemetery, when the channel of the creek was changed three skeletons were found in the face down, facing west position. This article would be worth the time to read from the microfilm. On a visit to the cemetery on 25 Feb 1999 we talked with an elderly black lady who, not knowing the above, related the following 'my daddy when I was a little girl.. worked on the crew that straightened Delaware Creek, they found a body that was buried on the creekline and buried face down with the hands tied behind the back'.

This deed had a stipulation that the land revert to heirs if the church no longer needed this land as access to the church. Wouldn't that be a mess! This suggests that there is an earlier deed that we have not discovered. A deed dated 6 Dec 1916 and filed for record on 3 Feb 1917 in Book CH Vol 87 Page 98 for 1 acre of land in the S. S. Moore survey from E. C. Smith et ux to Rehobeth Church. Another deed dated 5 Dec 1928 and filed for record on 7 Dec 1928 in Book CH Vol 123 Page 464 for 1 acre of the J. A. It is a small family cemetery on the historic Abraham Ringo land near McCrury Community and is 1.7 miles west on FM 196 of the McCrury Cemetery and 1/10 miles south of the road. There is a Texas Memorial Plaque for this cemetery. There are 7 pieces of broken granite used to locate the graves and a concrete marker inscribed 'Family of Peter Ringo'. As Peter does not appear in the 1860, 1870 nor 1880 census he may be interred here. By 1860 4 of the children are married in RRCo TX and one is already widowed. Of the 6 original children, only 2 appear in the 1860 census. This cemetery was surveyed on 24 Nov 1999 by Lawrence and Sue Dale. CLARKSVILLE TIMES 31 Aug 2000: A special ceremony dedicating the Texas historical marker for Ringo Ferry and Ringo Cemetery in southwestern Red River County was conducted Saturday, August 12. Members of Red River County Historical Commission Committee officiated at the event with Mary Hausler, chairperson, welcoming Ringo family descendants and county residents who witnessed the dedication. The marker is located on FM 196 southwest of Bogata about 2 miles northeast of the site on the Sulphur River where the ferry was once operated by the Ringo family. It is situated 650 feet north of the Ringo Cemetery. The cemetery, resting place for 16 people, was destroyed some time before 1961, but restoration efforts recently recovered 8 of the grave markers. William K. Barnard, Ph. D., of Dallas is a descendant of the Peter Ringo family which established the Ringo Ferry. He gave the introduction, a brief history of the ferry and cemetery, and performed the unveiling of the marker. 'For about 100 years the Ringo Ferry, Ringo Bridge or Ringo Crossing served an important role.' Bernard said. 'It provided convenient travel, shipping and communication between Red River County and the interior of the Republic of Texas and the state of Texas.' The area today is still known as Ringo Crossing. Peter Ringo established a family cemetery approximately 2 miles northeast of Ringo Crossing. 'The cemetery is on a high bluff overlooking the Sulphur River bottoms, currently under cultivation by Brushy Creek Farms,' the Ringo descendant reported. Although the cemetery was destroyed, one tombstone engraved 'Peter Ringo and Family' and the remains of 8 grave markers were placed under an ancient tree. The location of the cemetery was located by surface scraping thanks to information provided by Mr. Pearis Abernathy', Barnard said. 'As a young man, Mr. Abernathy lived with his parents across the road from the cemetery. He and his father maintained the cemetery and fenced it.

This cemetery was started by a splinter group that had broken off from the church based in Salt Lake City, Utah. As of 1999 there have finally been records found by the LDS concerning this old church and burying ground in the turn of the century era. This burying ground is located on my old family land. From deed records which were never filed, William Malachi Coble and wife gave an acre of ground to the Latter Day Saints (Mormons) for a church and burying ground. There was a stipulation that the land revert to the previous owners if and when the church no longer existed. This cemetery is located 1.8 miles south of Manchester on CR 2235 which goes to Bagwell, (the old Bagwell road). It is very badly overgrown and difficult to spot even though it is directly off the road to the west. There are over 50 burials here but the vast majority are unmarked and in the edge of a pasture. The oldest marked burial is that of James T. Gregory who died on 31 Oct 1889.

This cemetery is an old abandoned cemetery, lost in the woods, but it has two distinctions. It bears the name of another cemetery also in the area and has been clouded with confusion since it was abandoned many years ago. Some of the local people refer to it as Shawnee Chapel and there was a Methodist church there in the past. See RED RIVER RECOLLECTIONS page 16 for a more complete tie in for this church. From Boxelder take FM 44 east for about 4.5 miles to the intersection with CR 4430 on the left. Find a parking spot for the rest is walking. From the junction of the two roads, walk Southeast (With a compass the heading is 130 degrees) and walk for approximately 250 yards. Stop and look for you are now in the cemetery. Shiloh Cemetery: See Old Shiloh as most of the references are to the older of two cemeteries in the county to bear this name. In the late 1800's it was referred to as the Shiloh Burying Ground. Near the turn of the century, however, it was determined to relocate the Shiloh Cumberland Presbyterian Church to Madras and a new cemetery was started there. From reading the early newspapers of this area the new cemetery was referred to as Shiloh Cemetery. At sometime after about 1952, however, preference of names was given to the current name of Madras Cemetery. At near the same time, the original became Old Shiloh Cemetery."

Shipp's Mill Cemetery: late 1800's, This cemetery is located in the northwest quadrant of Red River County, Texas. GPS COORDINATES: Datum WGS84: 33 Deg 44.551N, 95 Deg 12.274W. This cemetery dates from the late 1800's and was created on the Knight's Ranch land. In time there was a large lumber mill established in the area to the north and west of the cemetery. In reading all the extant newspapers during the time that Shipp's Mill was in operation, there was not a single article that specified burial in this cemetery, all such deaths being noted as burial in Blanton Creek Cemetery. At the time of its creation it was just east of the road from Midway Community to the Manchester Community and was just to the north of Dinwiddie Bayou. With the closing of the mill and the changing of the road to the present location, the cemetery is now cut off from any country road. There is no easy way to reach the old cemetery. Possibly the best way to go to the area now is to go north of Bagwell on the current Bagwell to Manchester road to the crossing of Dinwiddie Bayou, find a place to pull off the road and then head west along the bayou until you reach the old washed out trace that was the Midway to Manchester road. It is suggested that you invest in a GPS device and then, using it, retrace to the coordinates given earlier. This is not a Sunday afternoon excursion and is not for someone wanting a short pleasant walk in the woods. This is an extremely primitive area. It is badly overgrown and is full of mosquitos and snakes. All that remains of the old burying ground at this time, 29 Sep 2003, is a single stone marker as the old wooden stobs have long since been burned or rotted. On the above date, we were guided to the area by Delma Gibbs and his sister, Venita Jo Gibbs Oldfield Morris. We remained on the sight for a short hour filming and taking pictures and locating the old fence corners of the cemetery. From what was found the cemetery is about 20 feet by 60 feet in size and possibly contains about 10 to 15 graves. About half of the site has been used as a bull dozer dump area and as such is over filled to a depth of about 24 to 30 inches with topsoil. We were able to locate three of the four corners of the cemetery and possibly with more time the last of them could be found. Remember, this is on International Paper Company land and is to be entered only with their permission. There has not been a set aside found in the County Clerk's office for this cemetery.

Erie road south of Mt. Erie on the west side of the road on Circle C ranch property. This is private property. Please do not attempt entry without prior permission. The oldest marked burial is that of Thomas H. Sinclair who died on 7 Nov 1879,

From FM 1159 take CR 3115N for 1/10 mile to the intersection with CR 3177. Take 3177 2.1 miles and the cemetery is on the right or east. This is a primitive cemetery and there are no signs. On 27 July 1892 William Beaty was paid $1 for one acre of the John Ware survey for the Slate cemetery. The oldest marked burial is that of Rev. J. B. Slate who died 15 Dec 1901.

Smith Family Cemetery: 17 Oct 1989, This cemetery is located in the northwest quadrant of Red River County, Texas. GPS COORDINATES: Datum WGS84: 33 Deg 41.146N, 95 Deg 09.941W, El 507 ft. This cemetery is for members of the family only. It is about two miles north of Bagwell, behind the house in the pasture just at the edge of the woods. The oldest burial is for James R. Smith, Jr. who was originally interred in Blanton Creek Cemetery. After seeing that the burial site was low lying, his wife started the proceedings and a portion of land was dedicated for cemetery usage. Shortly after this was completed, a grandson was killed in a traffic accident and he was also interred in the family cemetery.

Smith Rosalie Cemetery: 21 Nov 1863, This cemetery is located in the southwest quadrant of Red River County, Texas. GPS COORDINATES: Datum WGS84: 33 Deg 28.389N, 95 Deg 11.065W. While reading the microfilmed records of CLARKSVILLE TIMES we noticed that most references to this cemetery were as Smith, not Rosalie. Since name preferences change as time goes on, we have referenced all work as Smith Rosalie Cemetery. This cemetery is located about 9 miles southwest of Clarksville on FM 909, just east of the Rosalie Community. The oldest marked grave is that of Margaret Smith who died 21 Nov 1863.
Sowell Cemetery: see Bivins
Spencer Cemetery: 1 Jan 1880, This cemetery is located in the northwest quadrant of Red River County, Texas. GPS COORDINATES: Datum WGS84: 33 Deg 48.446N, 95 Deg 10.894W. This is one of many small family cemeteries in RRCo TX. It is not on a road and can be reached only by a good pasture walk. From the Manchester community go south on the Bagwell road approximately 2 miles to the first road turning to the right. Take this a short 1/2 mile to the first intersecting fencerow on the south or left. You must now walk down this fencerow a short 1/4 mile. The cemetery is on the right just as you approach an intersecting cross fence
Springhill B Cemetery:, 6 Aug 1910, This cemetery is located in the northwest quadrant of Red River County, Texas. This old black cemetery is within 1/2 mile of Blakeney Cemetery. According to Rev. Matthew Ligon of Paris TX there has not been a burial there for many years and cattle have been allowed to roam freely over the site for the last 40 or so years. There were never any permanent markers erected and the only hope we have is to recreate the burials from old records such as Brownrigg Funeral Home books. The cemetery itself is about 800 yards southeast of Blakeney Cemetery site and there is nothing remaining except pasture. Contact with Rev. Ligon by Lawrence and Sue Dale was on 22 May 2000. The oldest burial we have been able to place here is that of Johnie Wortham who died on 6 Aug 1910.

This cemetery is located in the Cherry Community. Parson Amos M. Stone (1813 1862) gave the land for the Stones Chapel Cemetery and upon his death on 14 Nov 1862 became the first burial there.
Stout Cemetery: 16 Aug 1845, This cemetery is located in the southeast quadrant of Red River County, Texas. Oldest burial we have been able to locate is that of Mary Helen Stout who died on 16 Aug 1845. Lemuel J. Dickson is listed on the reverse of his mother's marker in Cuthand Cemetery, Northwest section, she is Julia F. Dickson, he is 'buried in the Stout's Burying Ground on the Cuthand Hill near our old home'. From Deed Records in Red River County: Book D, page 367 8 William B. Stout sold to Edward West 640 acres about 10 miles southwest from Clarksville 1/3 of a league and 1 labor adjoining a survey made for the heirs of James R. Miro, also adjoining a labor survey on the headright of John Land, also adjoining the headright of John Nugent. 5 July 1843"
Tanyard Cemetery: Mar 1870, This cemetery is located in the northwest quadrant of Red River County, Texas. Located on Tanyard Creek east and north of Addielou on land owned by Sammy Andrews. This is private land and any attempt to visit this cemetery should be coordinated through the owner. On 19 Apr 2000 we were finally able to visit the site of this old burial ground locally called Tanyard due to the proximity to the old hide tanning facilities. We were taken to the site by Boyd Harmening of Addielou Community. The cemetery is located near the junction of Tanyard Creek and Pine Creek atop a large bluff overlooking the area. It is also known as Vickrey Cemetery since it is located on land historically owned by that family. There is evidence of possibly 50 to 75 more burials in the area but only 3 markers were located after a stay of an hour. One of the markers was discovered during our probing of the area and is very incomplete and only partial data was recovered. Another of the markers, Sallie Johnston, was a daughter to Boyd's great, great, grandparents. Size of the cemetery is about 3/10 of an acre and is definitely in the abandoned category. The oldest burial is questionably that of Stephen Bell, a confederate veteran. His death is stated as March 1870 but he is not on the 1870 Mortality Schedule. He is shown with his family on the 1870 Federal Census taken in August of 1870. We will, however, show his burial as the oldest in the cemetery."

Thompson Family Cemetery: 13 Aug 1879, This cemetery is located in the northeast quadrant of Red River County, Texas. From LOST, ABANDONED, FAMILY AND SMALL COMMUNITY CEMETERIES permission to include here given on 4 Dec 1999 by Pat Newhouse of Dallas TX, Editor and Copyright Holder: This cemetery is one of several lost or abandoned cemeteries located in RRCo TX. These readings are taken from older records dating back to the 1930's and this is the only record of these burials as the cemeteries no longer exist. The Thompson Family Cemetery is located near the Red River south of the Bryarly community. It was abandoned and apparently destroyed or overgrown at some time after this information was recorded c/a 1950.

Gaines to Thompson Lewis School. The oldest marked burial is that of Oliver Griggs who died on 26 Oct 1900.

It is located behind the Melton Home, southwest across the pasture and across the large creek 5/10 mile from the road. It is near the line of the headright survey of William Bailey and Daniel Perkins and probably a little inside the Daniel Perkins survey. The oldest marked burial is that of Chas. B. VANDALS DIG INTO GRAVE AT WRIGHT CHAPEL CEMETERY

Three miles north of Deport is located a very old cemetery, known as the Wright Chapel cemetery, established by the father of John W. Wright as a family burial plot many years ago. So far as Mr. Wright knows, no persons have ever been buried in the plot with any kind of gold or other precious metals on their bodies, and he is unable to account for any reason that would prompt a vandal to dig into one of the graves.
